Joan Severance —Westbury Class of 1977

Severance began her career in modeling and acting, landing her first role on a major television series for CBS called “Wiseguy.” Since 2004 she has performed in many popular TV shows like “One Tree Hill” and “CSI: Miami” and Hallmark’s “Mystery Woman” and “Wicked Wicked Games” with Tatum O’Neal on UPN. Joan has a Bachelors in Natural Health and is obtaining her N.D. degree as a doctor of Naturopathy. She is also developing a cooking show and a series of event-style cookbooks targeting a younger audience in order to arm them with creative and fun ways to make food, give parties and stay healthy.

David McLemore —Westbury Class of 1987

McLemore is native Houstonian who graduated from Westbury with honors. He completed all four years in the Corps of Cadets at Texas A&M University and is currently an executive vice president with Kirksey, managing a team of architects and interior designers for their healthcare portfolio. His volunteer work includes the American Academy on Architecture for Health, his homeowner’s association board and Trees for Houston. McLemore is married to WHS ’87 Paula Priest and has three children, Jacob, Olivia and Caleb, and has coached in the West Houston Christian League for 23 boys and girls soccer and baseball teams over the past 12 years.

Andrew Blanks Jr. —Westbury Faculty

Coach Blanks took over as head track and field coach at Westbury in 1990, where he has helped an unknown program become one of the top programs in the country. During this time, his teams won numerous district and regional titles, along with a number of state accomplishments. Under his tutelage, Westbury became the only high school in the world to have two athletes from the same school make the finals of an Olympic event. The two Westbury athletes were in the finals of the 400-meter hurdles in the 2004 Athens games.

Howard Sacks —Westbury Community Leader

Howard Sacks, president of Willow Waterhole Greenspace Conservancy, has been a broadcast account executive for over 30 years and is currently employed by Fox Entertainment Group. A resident of Maplewood South since 1982, Sacks has served on various neighborhood and community posts, especially those dealing with neighborhood improvement and environmental issues. Married for 28 years to Cindy, Sacks also has two sons, Michael and Logan, two Standard poodles and three cats.
